

The group for this project consisted of me and Treece Hillstrom.

My partner was in charge of organizing his own page and helping organize a majority of the figma. He helped with picking out the themes of our top ten and finding videos for our topics as well. I was in charge of the styling and setting up the landing page and my page for the majority of this project.